DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bezick et al (USPN 5,746,656).

Bezick, in col. 2:38-67, col. 3:1-67, col. 5:1-67 and col. 6:11-67, discloses a game system, the system comprising: at least one game controller, each game controller including apparatus permitting a user to generate user input signals, the game controller including a local display unit; a game hub, the game hub receiving user input signals and integrating the user input signals in a game program, the game hub generating local display signals and status display signals in accordance with the game program, the local display signals being transmitted to each local display unit; and a display unit coupled to the game hub, the display unit displaying an image determined by the status display signals. Bezick, in col. 2:38-67, col. 3:1-67, col. 5:1-67 and col. 6:11-67, discloses the local display signals provide data to the user of the game controller not available to users of other game controller(s), the data provided by the local display signals permit the user to interact with the game program, the game hub and the game controller are remote from each other, a method of implementing a game program, the method comprising: displaying a different set of image objects to each player interacting with the game, objects includes display the image objects on a local display unit associated with a game controller and further including interacting with the game program by the player based on the display of the image objects. Bezick, in FIGS. 1-4, col. 2:38-67, col. 3:1-67, col. 5:1-67, col. 6:11-67, col. 7:15-67 and col. 8:1-67, discloses at least one player is remote from the game program, at least one signal input device for generating signals interacting with a game program; and a local display unit for displaying images results from local display signals generated in response to the game program. Bezick, in FIGS. 1-4, col. 2:38-67, col. 3:1-67, col. 5:1-67, col. 6:11-67, col. 7:15-67, col. 8:1-67 and col. 9:25-67, discloses the local display signals generated by the game program are specific to the local display unit, the images displayed by the local display unit permit a user to interact with the game program, the game apparatus includes a game hub coupled to the game controller and a display unit coupled to the game hub, the game program being executed in the game hub, and the game hub and the game controller are coupled by electro-magnetic transmissions.
